Are you Ready for an Audit?

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) has started to audit GLRC members. One of the biggest challenges thus far has been record keeping. Since the program infiltrates several different departments within a single community it can be very challenging to have a handle on record keeping. MDEQ has a guidance document regarding this and the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission can help you get on track. We recommend that you get organized NOW, this will not only save you time in the future but it can also help identify gaps in your program that may need to be addressed to reach permit compliance. Contact Erin Campbell, GLRC Coordinator at ecampbell@mitcrpc.org for more information.

Michigan Water Stewardship Program

The Michigan Water Stewardship Program (MWSP) is a partnership of organizations that provide educational assistance to Michigan's residents to identify and reduce contamination risks to water and other natural resources. The program encourages individuals to take voluntary proactive steps to protect Michigan's water quality - our drinking water - as well as protect our other valuable natural resources while caring for our family's health.

The Eaton Conservation District is excited to announce a new game for residents to tour where your water goes. You may play the game by visiting: www.miwaterstewardship.org/YouthStewards/OurWaterGames

The interactive site features a virtual water cycle flow model showing residents the impacts of real life scenarios as a result of their every day actions on Michigan's water resources. Also, the local resource section provides a gateway to local environmental events and volunteer opportunities statewide.

"There are a lot of small, easy changes residents and homeowners can make to protect local water quality, and in turn, protect the Great Lakes. This site is fun and engaging for students, teachers, and residents," said Andrea Stay, Executive Director, Eaton Conservation District.

In addition to the free games, the website offers a section for students to become youth stewards using videos and activities; and a section for educators with ready-made lesson plans, activities, demonstrations, videos, publications, presentations, and a list of other teaching resources for enhancing environmental learning.
